- “PLAN: Downtown identifies improving housing options, with a focus on affordable housing (new and preserving existing). What are your thoughts on allowing taller building development in Chinatown if those developments were to also provide onsite affordable housing opportunities?”

I have for density. It enlivens the street scene and makes housing creation more affordable.

- “As part of the Chinatown Rezoning process, the BPDA will also update land uses in Chinatown to better reflect the needs of the community. Land uses regulate what is allowed to be developed in different parts of a neighborhood or city. For instance, land use currently allows for daycares anywhere in Chinatown, but requires other types of businesses or services, like supermarkets, to go through a more rigorous application and review process. Based on this, how do you think current land use can better align with Chinatown’s needs? Do you see more of a need for other uses or types of uses (i.e. types of housing, businesses, etc.)?”

Chinatown suffers from a lack of open space. The Reggie Wong Park is the most heavily used parcel in the City. Trade height and density for open space or recreational space within new structures.

- “Based on what was covered in this survey, what do you think are the priorities for the Chinatown Rezoning process? What would you like to see addressed in the zoning process?”

Open space, police station, recreational uses inside new structures, affordable housing and affordable retail spaces subsidized by density allowed for market rate housing.

- “What makes Chinatown unique compared to the rest of downtown Boston?”

Retail and restaurants. Cultural identity.

- “Is there anything that you would like to know more about regarding the Chinatown Rezoning process? Or do you have questions about zoning in general?”

Make it easier to do business in Boston from a regulatory basis. Allow for greater height and density.

- “Other/Additional Thoughts:”

Have more people on staff who have actually built something, run a business, applied for permits, etc. Encourage and embrace investment and not NIMBY everything that comes along.

It will be too congested for the city. The traffic will be worse than it already is.

Access to parking will be limited as well as cost for parking will probably increase.

- “As part of the Chinatown Rezoning process, the BPDA will also update land uses in Chinatown to better reflect the needs of the community. As long as it’s being used to make the community more welcoming and the community is happy with the outcome

I think it should be used according to the needs of the community

Not in favor of taller buildings, particularly so close to the Boston Common and Garden. Changes the nature of the surrounding area.

I think it's important to maximize the limited space for both residential and commercial use in Chinatown. Taller buildings that provide affordable housing opportunity is a good idea.

The current land use can better align with Chinatown's need by making allowing businesses such as supermarkets, hotels and others that benefits the residents be allowed.

- “Based on what was covered in this survey, what do you think are the priorities for the Chinatown Rezoning process? What would you like to see addressed in the zoning process?”

I don't like seeing developers defying height regulations and attempting to break the rules and build tall buildings. Shade on neighboring buildings and on green spaces like the Greenway is a real problem.

I would hope that all existing buildings become occupied before newer and taller buildings are built. I would be for taller buildings if it is the best option that allows for more affordable housing to be created. Regardless, any new structure that is developed should be considered for its impacts on the surrounding ecosystem.

- “As part of the Chinatown Rezoning process, the BPDA will also update land uses in Chinatown to better reflect the needs of the community. I think the older infrastructure of properties should be addressed. There are certain streets and businesses that need structural work done, and if land use is being considered I think land value should also be evaluated.

- “Based on what was covered in this survey, what do you think are the priorities for the Chinatown Rezoning process? What would you like to see addressed in the zoning process?”

I believe the Chinatown Rezoning process is aiming to survey the community for their needs, and advocate on their behalf. There also seems to be scientific analysis and data collection involved, so I assume they will be supporting their arguments with published research.

The density of culture. Chinatown is distinctly outlined by its small businesses. I associate downtown Boston with a more consumerist atmosphere.

Developing more affordable housing should be a top priority. I would also like to see a prohibition against cannabis establishments and electronic billboards within Chinatown. Our residents have consistently and overwhelmingly demonstrated our opposition to dispensaries and billboards in our neighborhood.

Chinatown is a decidedly mixed use neighborhood where residential and commercial life is very much intertwined.

I support this, however I would ask that historic preservation be a key part of this (by preserving historically significant buildings or integrating their facades into newer taller buildings)

I think the Chinatown is focusing on allowing for the construction of more housing, especially affordable housing

- “What makes Chinatown unique compared to the rest of downtown Boston?”

Its history is of a neighborhood of immigrants who at one point were not really allowed to live anywhere else. It's important that we not forget that history and that we celebrate Chinese American culture moving forward.

1. There are quite a few large buildings around where I live in Chinatown that are vacant - why can't we fill the existing buildings with housing and first floor retail before building new? 2. Will height affect the sun and wind elements in Chinatown? Will height effect having viable green space? How can BPDA assure that there is a healthy balance of all the objectives (housing, sun, nice green space, less vacant buildings, etc.)

- “As part of the Chinatown Rezoning process, the BPDA will also update land uses in Chinatown to better reflect the needs of the community. I think this type of zoning has led to an issue of diversity of businesses in Chinatown. Because of this I need to leave Chinatown for non-Chinese groceries, hardware store, refill shop, parks with more plants/permeable surfaces and space for off leash dogs (most of our open space near me are hard top surfaces with little plant life - Chinatown Gate and Phillips Sq) Chinatown's businesses mostly consist of restaurants & bakeries, banks, hair salons. Also Tufts takes up a large portion of Chinatown and doesn't really feel welcoming. I prefer the side of Chinatown that feels homey and not corporate. I think it should have more residential space and more variety of street level businesses.

- “Based on what was covered in this survey, what do you think are the priorities for the Chinatown Rezoning process? What would you like to see addressed in the zoning process?”

I think the priorities for the re-zoning process are to provide more housing and more diversity of businesses. I would like to see individual buildings zoning updated from industrial to mixed use - our zoning is outdated and does not reflect who is actually occupying these buildings.

- “What makes Chinatown unique compared to the rest of downtown Boston?”

The diversity in ages and income levels who live here together.

There are enough skyscrapers. Taller buildings exacerbate traffic. Already empty taller buildings providing onsite affordable (low income) housing opportunities is much needed.

More resources should be allocated to preserve existing housing as long term affordable housing in addition to new construction. Taller buildings should only be allowed on the edges of Chinatown, such as lower Washington Street, and only if the projects provide at least 2/3 affordable housing and community commercial space on site.

- “As part of the Chinatown Rezoning process, the BPDA will also update land uses in Chinatown to better reflect the needs of the community. Uses should allow for restaurants, supermarkets, herbal stores, salons, as well as different types of housing, including single room occupancy. Uses that are forbidden in other residential neighborhoods, such as cannabis dispensaries and electronic billboards, should be similarly forbidden in Chinatown.

- “Based on what was covered in this survey, what do you think are the priorities for the Chinatown Rezoning process? What would you like to see addressed in the zoning process?”

All the construction jobs building commercial and residential units near chinatown are already going to tower over this small area. The construction by south Station, ink block, quincy high school and few other locations have surpassed the height of existing buildings. The major concern is the environmental impact of even taller buildings in a congested space by the highways. My parents live in chinatown and there is constantly a thick layer of soot and dust whenever they open the windows. More affordable housing is welcomed but the health of the community is vital to improve healthy living spaces.

- “As part of the Chinatown Rezoning process, the BPDA will also update land uses in Chinatown to better reflect the needs of the community. Senior living options with cantonese speaking staff and medical professionals are lacking. Every elderly chinese person that I know has had to go to south cove senior living facilities in quincy because chinatown does not have this capacity.

With the opening of the new quincy school in fall 2024, I have not seen any new establishments to support the hundreds of students and families that will attend. Parking and transportation plans have not not been communicated.

It is noticeable the delays in food establishment openings and how long it takes to get all permits. It would be ideal to streamline this process while keeping the safety and regulations in check.

- “Based on what was covered in this survey, what do you think are the priorities for the Chinatown Rezoning process? What would you like to see addressed in the zoning process?”

Chinatown cultural identity should be preserved. It should be a place for residents to live with others speaking a shared language, custom and identity. Others are always welcomed. It would be ideal to keep the traditions of going into a bakery for a bao, restaurant for a rice dish and supermarket with ingredients that are not in the local stop and shop. Above all, it needs to be a safe and healthy neighborhood for everyone. Chinatown has cleaned up a bit in the past years but crime, discrimination and environmental safety are still major issues.

- “PLAN: Downtown identifies improving housing options, with a focus on affordable housing (new and preserving existing). What are your thoughts on allowing taller building development in Chinatown if those developments were to also provide onsite affordable housing opportunities?”

Gentrification is expected where housing is very old. Affordable housing is good. People who live or do business will adapt. If the Chinese culture and community is kept strong, the visitors will come. The neighborhood is not dependent on old buildings. Modern services and maintaining sanitation should take priority.

- “As part of the Chinatown Rezoning process, the BPDA will also update land uses in Chinatown to better reflect the needs of the community. Land uses regulate what is allowed to be developed in different parts of a neighborhood or city. For instance, land use currently allows for daycares anywhere in Chinatown, but requires other types of businesses or services, like supermarkets, to go through a more rigorous application and review process. Based on this, how do you think current land use can better align with Chinatown’s needs? Do you see more of a need for other uses or types of uses (i.e. types of housing, businesses, etc.)?”

Make sure there is a balance; where there is housing make sure residents have amenities met. Examples: health, nutrition, access to social life, to meet their physical, emotional and spiritual needs.

- “Based on what was covered in this survey, what do you think are the priorities for the Chinatown Rezoning process? What would you like to see addressed in the zoning process?”

The planning process must give people enough time or notice, explaining reasons for, and what to expect from the change.

- “What makes Chinatown unique compared to the rest of downtown Boston?”

Chinatown is a historic enclave which today continues to give new immigrants a place to adjust. The younger generation of Americans can learn their ancestral culture. It invites diverse groups to the Boston area and to learn about Asian culture. Provides for a stronger US, based demonstrating a multicultural society, having a positive impact on racism.

Make sure the plan incorporates re-engineering of streets, sanitation, roadway storm drains and trash removal. Use computer technology to help the residents, businesses, and city communicate and manage an active maintenance system.

I support this model, specifically about introducing new mixed-income buildings. I'm not sure what preserving existing affordable housing means since these already have legal protections in place.

Unless I'm mistaken, I don't think the city can make a particular business type located in Chinatown. If anything, I think there needs to be deregulation for permitting small businesses as opposed to new zoning.

I'm not sure because there is no proposal from the City/BPDA to respond to. Of the questions asked, mixed-income housing expansion is important to me so more of my family members can stay or relocate to Chinatown.

- “What makes Chinatown unique compared to the rest of downtown Boston?”

It's still a first stop for many Chinese immigrants moving to the area. A place where they can feel connected to their former homes through food, cultural events, and gathering with other Chinese speakers in the park.

- “Is there anything that you would like to know more about regarding the Chinatown Rezoning process? Or do you have questions about zoning in general?”

I'm not sure what this rezoning process is trying to accomplish and why I provided feedback through PLAN: Downtown. Will those recommendations be tossed? Is this a new process?

Zoning changes are a way for Chinese-American families who have stayed in Chinatown since it was a less desirable place to live due to City policies to capitalize by reinvesting in their community. Zoning changes should be approached through this lens because long-term property owners/community members have a deeper understanding of Chinatown than the City - which has historically disenfranchised Chinatown residents in the past.

I am in favor but the only development entering should be actually affordable. The term “affordable housing” should be tightly regulated. Also the architecture/development should not disrupt the cultural spirit of the neighborhood. This should not displace current residents.

I would like to see preservation of the community as a priority. Rezoning and redevelopment are just covers for gentrification and displacement.

- “What makes Chinatown unique compared to the rest of downtown Boston?”

It’s cultural identity and long history makes it unique to the rest of Boston

- “Is there anything that you would like to know more about regarding the Chinatown Rezoning process? Or do you have questions about zoning in general?”

Do you define “affordable housing” in this process? What ratio of affordable housing to profitable development is there? I find this ethically dubious.

- “Other/Additional Thoughts:”

If you’re just rezoning to bring in high rise development and displace residents and businesses that have been in Chinatown for generations, you’re a terrible person. I hope you know what you’re opening Chinatown up to and the consequences on a community that will happen because of your actions.
